

New Heraklion International Airport, Crete (HER)

airport consulting
We enhance your airport!

Security Advisory Services

The New International Airport of Heraklion, Crete will be the second busiest airport in Greece serving up to 10 Mill. passengers at the start in 2027. The new airport will be designed, built and operated under a concession's agreement by a consortium of the Greek state, Terna SA, and GMR Airports Limited. TH Airport Consulting has been contracted by the new airport company to provide security advisory services during design, construction and start-up of the project.

Services

- Development of a Security Strategy & Risk Assessment Plan
- Definition of design requirements for Security Equipment and Systems
- Review of the preliminary and detailed design of the contractor all security related issues
- Development of the Security Program including necessary security plans for approval by the Civil Aviation Authority
- Development of standard operating procedures SOPs and security emergency processes
- Security Training and Quality Control

Period of Services:
since 2023

